

Burbank tech talks

The Future of Internet Privacy

The City of Burbank, in partnership with TechFire, is featuring a timely discussion on the future of internet privacy. From the impact of social media on privacy issues to how the E.U.'s General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) changes the game for U.S. startups, you won't want to miss this month's talk. Featured speaker is attorney Andrew Lachman, experienced with data privacy issues as well as other corporate, IT transactions, and SaaS legal matters. With more than ten years of experience working with large and small clients, Andrew currently serves as outside general counsel for startups. A former VP of Legal Affairs for Information Technology at Paramount Pictures, Andrew served on the Viacom and Move.com privacy practices committees.
